Remarkable Presentiment of Death.

The Charleston City Gazette of the 30th June, he had written, and delivered into our hands, his Reflections on Death, paid suddenly, yet calmly, the tribute of nature; as if some presentiment of dissolution had impressed his spirit, and prepared it for another world.

ON DEATH. We all must die, quoth brave Sir Charles, Of Death I'm not afeard; What boots to live a little space? Thank Jesus, I'm prepared.'-Chatterton.

Death is a subject which indeed nearly concerns us all. As all who are born must die, surely death, physically considered, is but in the order of nature, and, in a spiritual sense, the beginning of a life that ends not. The termination of human existence is not at all times to be regretted; for the responsibility of life is great and the sooner it ends, the less scope we have for crime or error. To an enlightened mind there is consolation even in the certainty of death. The dim and dusky grave is ever before us; it receives us all, and we ought all to be prepared for it.

Still, to many, the shock is most severe, that wrenches us from "all we love and all we hate," and, with the guilty, it must shake the heart of the firmest, while it may seem far otherwise to the innocent, the persecuted, and the unhappy, whose minds are oppressed with

> 'That weariness which springs From all they feel, or hear, or see.'

To such, the eye that shrinks not, the soul that quails not for itself at any peril, is still appalled by the conscious fear and prothose delightful objects of our regard.

Vague and uncertain as the waves of the ocean, are the thoughts which surround us on this important final matter.

To lie in cold obstruction and to rot,' is repugnant to this sensible frame of ours. All animals instinctively shrink from it, and from the approach of it, except man. Yet even to the immortal spirit of man the event is awful. What keeps alive his courage, but Religion, pointing to another world, and whispering to him that world is better far than this? Under this view of life, because,

Who would lose, Though full of pain, this intellectual being, Those thoughts that wander through eternity, To perish rather, swallow'd up and lost In the wide womb of uncreated night, Devoid of sense and motion?'

"I know there is another and a better world," is man's expiring exclamation and dying solace. "Death ends our woes," is a remark long since made. But is not this questionable? The very question should make us cautious in all our steps through life, to "eschew evil and do good," so as to permit a christian's hopes to raise us in the hour of danger above all fear, and in the hour of death to fill us with all the comforts of a blessed expectancy.

These remarks are suggested by the numerous instances of mortality which have of late been seen and felt amongst us in the city of Charleston. If you think them worthy of an insertion, give them a place in your respectable journal. They emanate from thoughts, the united result of misfor, tune and reflection; and from a conviction that there is no real happiness but in a reliance upon the Creator and Redeemer of Man.-S.C.G.

Original Virginal of Queen Elizabeth, one of the curiosities in the valuable cabinet collection of the late Lord Viscount Fitzwilliam. It may be gratifying to many of our readers to be informed, that the original virginal itself which belonged to that illustrious Queen, and upon which she was known to be so excellent a performer, is still in existence, and in a state of perfect preservation. This curious and beautiful instrument is now in the possession of Jonah Childs, artist of Dudly, who would have no objection to transfer it to a more suitable possessor. It was purchased at lord Spencer Chichester's sale, at Fisherwick, about every thing, stones, plants, animals, even twelve years ago, and was the property of the late most noble, the marquis of Donegal. The case is covered with crimson decreased.' > The following singularly jingling letter is from the pen of Mr. Cowper, the celebrated poet, to the Rev. Mr. Newton, dated July 12, 1781.

My very dear Friend, I am going to send, what, when you have read, you may scratch your head, and say, I suppose, there's nobody knows, whether what I have got, be verse, or not: by the tune and the time, it ought to be rhyme; but if it be, did you ever see, of late or of yore, such a ditty before?

I have writ charity, not for popularity, but as well as I could, in hopes to do good; and if the reviewers should say, " to be sure the gentleman's muse wears methodist shoes, you may know by her pace and taik about grace, that she and her bard have little regard for the taste and fashions, and ruling passions, and hoydening play of the modern day; and though she assume a borrowed plume, and now and then wear a tittering air, 'tis only her plan to catch if she can, the giddy and gay, as they go that way, by a production on a new construction; she has baited her trap, in hopes to snap all that may come, with a sugar-plum;" Hiopinion in this will not be amiss; 'tis what I in tend my principal end; and if I succeed, and folks should read, till a few are brought to a serious thought, I shall think I am paid, for all I have said, and all I have done, though I have run, many a time, after rhyme, as far as from hence, to the end of my sense, and, by hook or by crook, write another book, if I live and am here, another year.

I heard before of a room, with a floor laid upon springs, and such like things, with so much art, n every part, that when you went in, you was forced to begin a minuet pace, with an air and a grace, swimming about, now in, and now out, with deal of state, in a figure of eight, without pipe or string, or any such thing; and now I have bability of eternal separation from the world, writ, in a rhyming fit, what will make you dance, from hopes for, or the care of, offspring, and as you advance, will keep you still, though against your will, dancing away, alert and gav till you come to an end of what I have penn'd; which that you may do ere madam and you are quite worn out with jigging about. I take my leave; and here you receive a bow p ofound, down to the ground, from your humble me—W. C.

BEDOUIN ARABS.

From Burckhardt's Travels in Syria and Palestine. When mounted on his camel, at an easy the subject, except as it differently affects | walk, by throwing his mantle over his head, the virtuous and the vicious, it is difficult as if to ward the sun, he could sometimes to say why life with all its cares should be write unobserved. "This evening I had recourse to the last method; but having many observations to note, I remained so long absent from my companions, that Ayd's curiosity was aroused. He came to look after me, and perceiving me immoveable on the spot, approached on tip-toe, and came close behind me without my perceiving him. I do 1813 not know how long he had remained there, but suddenly lifting up my cloak, he detected me with the book in my hand .-What is this?' he exclaimed. 'What are you doing? I shall not make you answerable for it at present, because I am your companion, but I shall talk further to you about it when we are at the convent;' I made no answer, till we returned to the halting-place, when I requested him to tell me what further he had to say. 'You write down our country,' he replied, in a passionate tone, 'our mountains, our pasturing places, and the rain which falls from heaven; other people have done this before you; but I, at least, will never become instrumental to the ruin of my country.' I assured him that I had no bad intentions on the 2d, 3d, and 4th of July, and, about a quartowards the Bedouins, and told him he ter of the reported Declaration having been struck must be convinced that I liked them too well for that; on the contrary, I added, had I not occasionally written down some | Harrison, a delegate from Virginia, was a large prayers ever since we left Taba, we should most certainly have been all killed; and it is very wrong in you to accuse me of that, which if I had omitted, would have cost us our lives.' FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

LETTER V. Philadelphia, July 9th, 1823.

DEAR COUSIN-The proximity of this date to the birth day of our Independence, may lead you to anticipate an account of the manner in which the Philadelphians celebrated that day. I shall however disappoint you for very obvious reasons:you who are hundreds of miles from this city know as much about the general manner of celebrating the day, as any one here, for it is the same in every part of the United States; and it would be laborious and indeed impossible, for me to give you a minute description of all the incidents that occurred to individuals. Such a description would fill volumes. I might relate to you what I myself witnessed-how the guns roared, the bells chimed, the drums beat, and the trumpets sounded-how many companies were arrayed in martial splendour, and how accurately they performed their evolutions-how many orations were spouted by young lawyers and pedagogues, with Demosthenian eloquence-how many public dinners were served up-I might enumerate the courses of each inner, describe the superlative deliciousness of ach dish, the peculiar flavour of the wines, give long list of patriotic toasts, and, to complete the climax, I might present you with a twilight view of the votaries of Bacchus, with bloody noses, black eyes, broken arms, and senseless bodies .-An exposition of such minutize is unnecessary; you are already familiar with them by personal asservation. But if you still possess the same patritic feelings and the same laudable curiosity, which I have often observed and admired, you will e gratified with a description of the place to which the eyes of all true Americans were directed with the greatest anxiety forty-seven years agoan account of the transactions that took place on he day we annually commemorate, and some re narks concerning those venerable sages who laid he corner stone of a temple of freedom, the boldconceived architecture of which filled the world with astonishment, and the completion of which, with unrivalled beauty, strength, and regularity. made the kings and potentates of the old world

In my last letter, which was a general descripon of Philadelphia, I gave you the situation of the State House;" the subject of this leads me o describe it more minutely. It may be consid ared as five distinct buildings, according to the ime of their erection. The oldest and the one most worthy of notice is that in the centre. It is brick building two stories high about 100 feet in length and 50 in width, with the side fronting Chesnut street. It was erected in the year 1733, with a lofty steeple on the back side, which, owing to some defect in the foundation, was afterwards artly demolished. A flat roof now covers the remaining walls of this most noble part of the edifice and a puny spire rises some ten or fileen feet above the main building-a striking emblem of fallen greatness. The entrance from the street to the public square divides the first story of this building into two equal parts, one of which is a om for courts of justice and the other contains Delaplaine's collection of Portraits of distinguished Americans. In the upper part is Peale's or the Philadelphia Museum. Soon after I arrived in be venerated by every lover of this land of Liberty. from the circumstance, that the Declaration of independence was signed within its walls." For the accommodation of Congress, a brick building, two stories high, about 60 feet in length and 50 wide, with a centric belfry, was erected on Sixth and Chesnut streets, in the year 1787. It is now occupied by the County Courts. In the year 1790, a building similar to this was erected on Fifth street. The two wings of the main building, for public offices, extending east and west and leaving only gateways between them and the buildings on Fifin and Sixth streets, were completed in the year remble on their thrones.

I shall now give you some particulars concerning the Declaration of Independence, with which you are probably unacquainted. On the 10th of June, 1776, the motion which produced the Declaration was made by R. H. Lee, from Virginia, the largest of the Thirteen United Colonies. It was seconded by Mr. Adams, from Massachusetts, at that time the second state. Mr. Jefferson, Mr. Adams, Dr. Franklin, Mr. Sherman, and Mr. Livingston, were appointed as a committee on the subject. Mr. Jefferson, though the youngest on the committee, was chairman. The committee met and appointed Mr. Jefferson and Mr. Adams a sub-committee to write the Declaration. Each solicited the other to perform the duty. Mr. Jefferson at last consented, and the next day submitted the original deaft, which was afterwards reported to the committee, who did not suggest a single alteration or amendment. The committee then reported the Declaration to Congress, on the first of July. 1776; it was discussed and amended out, it was adopted and signed on the latter day. The following humorous occurrence gives us a lively idea of private sentiments at that time. Mr. portly man-Mr. Gerry, of Massachusetts, was slender and spare. A little time after the solemn transaction of signing the instrument, Mr. H. said smilingly to Mr. G "When the hanging scene comes to be exhibited, I shall have the advantage over you on account of my size. All will be over with me in a moment, but you will be kicking in the air half an hour after I am gone.'

The want of time and room on this sheet prevents me from writing many things that I at first EDWARD. intended.

Mr. Patton, of New Bond Street, has obtained a patent for the invention of an astronomical instrument, or watch, by which the time of the day, the progress of the celestial bodies, &c. may be correctly ascertained. By the new part of the mechanism of this watch, a small point is made to strike, successively, upon a revolving dial-plate, any required number of slight blows, in a second of time; this mechanism being instantaneously put in action by the pressure of the finger, produces marks upon the plate corresponding to the minute divisions of time, which marks may be refer ed to, after the observations are completed; and, by that means, a transit, occultation, or other celestial appearance, may be observed and recorded with a greater degree of exactness than by any other hitherto made.

SUSPENSION PIERS.

Captain Brown, the architect of the Suspension Iron Bridge over the Tweed, has applied the same suspension-principle to the construction of Piers, and is erecting one at Brighton. The plateau is suspended from chains, which hang from pier to pier; and the piers themselves, consisting of separate iron bars, are of course, as such, exposed to a very slight action of the water. This plan of erecting piers, is of the highest importance; for many parts of our coasts may by this means, be rendered accessible to navigators, and convenient for commerce and communication; while the expense of repairing and re-building stone piers will be prevented.

MANUFACTURE OF GLUE FROM BONES. Mr. C. Yardly, of Camberwell, Surrey, has obtained a patent for the manufacture of glue from bones, by the employment of steam at a high pressure, which is conveyed into a closed globular vessel containing a quantity of bones, by the action of the steam on which the gelatine is extracted, which is afterwards clarified, evaporated, and dried upon nets in the ordinary manner, so as to become the glue of commerce.

This method consists in striking moveable characters (cast of a composition hereafter to be described) into lead, without the assistance of heat. Moveable characters formed of that composition, cast in the usual manner, are composed line by line, according to the common methods, till a page is formed. This page is placed in a frame of suitable dimensions, and in this fame two quadrats are placed, which, by means of screws, press all these moveable letters so as to form a solid mass. A brass or iron frame is made to the size of the page, and plate of iron is fastened to it by screws, to serve as a bottom; this frame is then filled with a plate of pure lead. The whole being thus prepared, the page composed of the moveable characters is put into the lead intended for a matrix: it is then placed under a strong press, which forces down the letters into this lead, which thus becomes a solid matrix. In this matrix as many stereotype forms may be cast as can be wanted. The composition for casting the moveable characters is formed of seven parts, by weight, of lead; two of regulus of antimony: and one of an alloy of tin and copper in the proportion of nine of tin, to one of copper.

MAGNETISM OF THE GLOBE.

Mr. Hanstæn, of Christiana, has made some remarkable discoveries with respect to the magnetism of the Globe, by means of a small oscillating instrument, consisting of a magnetic steel cylinder, suspended by a very fine silken thread, and enclosed in a glass globe. The principle of these discoveries is, that the intensity of the earth's magnetism is subject to daily variation; that it decreases from the early hours of the morning until about ten or eleven o'clock, which is the period of its minimum; that it then increases until about four in the afternoon, and during summer until six or seven in the evening; that it again decreases during the night; and returns to its maximum about three in the morning.

Curious stratagem .- The following article is extracted from a German paper, in which it is given under the head of Nurem-

From Campbell's New Monthly Magazine. STANZAS, Supposed to have been written by Lord Fitz-genald, on the night of his being arrested.

Oh! Ireland, my country! the hour
Of thy pride and thy splendour hath passed,
And the chain which thou spurned in thy moment of power Hangs heavy around thee at last.

There are marks in the fate of each clime, There are turns in the fortunes of men; But the changes of realms and the chances of tim Shall never restore thee again.

Thou art chained to the wheel of the foe, By links which the world shall not sever; With thy fyrants through storm and through calm thou shalt go, And thy sentence is 'bondage forever.'

Thou art doomed for the thankless to toil; Thou art left for the proud to disdain; And the blood of thy sons, and the wealth of thy Shall be wasted -- and wasted in vain!

Thy riches with taunts shall be taken; Thy valour with coldness repaid ; And of millions who see thee thus sunk and for Not one shall stand forth in thine aid.

In the nations thy place is left void; Thou art lost in the lists of the free : Even realms by the plague and the earthquake destroyed May revive-but no hope is for thee.

Defection of the Count Abisdal to the cause of freedom and his country.

[TRANSLATION.] Count Montijo to His Excellency the Count Abisbal "In the name of our afflicted country, I have recourse to your Excellency, the only person who can save her, and entreat you to consider Spain, divided and dismembered by her own chil dren, as in the same situation in which she was in 1308, raising the voice of common distress, and soliciting all her offspring for a deliverer. At that period, as at the present, the disorder of her Government debilitated her to such a degree, as to leave her without defence, and make it appear that it was easy to conquer her. At that time, as how, the nation which is our neighbor offered to remedy the evils which were felt by all, took possession of our fortresses, and introduced its armies, with a view thereby to ensure the happi ness which it tendered, and which was the greatest possible any people can enjoy-Monarchy, a just and moderate Government. At that time, as now, the Spanjards, driven to despair by the calamities they suffered, opened their arms to the stranger, receiving him and carrying him as it were in triumph through the northern provinces up to the capital. The latter resounded with shouts of joy at the entry of the French troops, and of the General who led them. Every evil was looked upon as trifling, and preferable to the continuation of disorder and despotism, insomuch that people invoked the despotism of Bonaparte, to get rid of that of Godov .- Even so now the public are clamorous for the absolute King, in order to free themselves from anarchy and from the despotism of the many. Finally, then, as now, two Powers disputed the ascendant, be cause neither of them possessed the general good will. The people, in silence and dismayed, viewed with bitter smiles, and almost with complacency, the fall of their Government, and even of their King; forgetting the mischiefs they brought on themselves, and the dangers which they incurred. But all at once an undaunted voice called out at Aranjuez, "Long live Spain, down with the despot!" And as soon as the latter had disappeared all Spaniards united; Division was at an end :-patriotism and valour were roused; and the conqueer of Europe in the end deplored his imprudence.

It was at Aranjuez that Bonaparte lost his power, for without the 19th of March the Spaniards would have made no resistance. But now the French are once more near the capital: The general will cannot be mistaken; the injustice and perverseness of the existing government are well known. Still we do not hear the shout which all are hoping for, of ' Spain forever! Independence forever?' The armed force, the warriors of Spain, are split into parties, outdoing each other in acts of injustice, because none of them is sanctioned by the general will. The soldier is loth to incur useless dangers : he deserts his ranks, and will ultimately abandon his Generals, who find it impossible to support any cause. Let, therefore, your Excellency come to a decision; and stretch forth your hand to save yourself and to save us-that is the country. Her welfare is the first law .- Your Excellency knows, and has declared that the sovereignty of the people being once recognized, it becomes a duty to obey the general will, which amounts to thisthat the Constitution of 1812 ought not to be retained, because it does not guarantee individual Contractors for carrying the Mails :safety, nor preserve the dignity of the Spanish Monarchy. Proclaim, therefore, what all desire, and act in concert with the other generals who entertain the same sentiments. Declare yourself independent, until the king shall be released Collect your army, and hasten to destroy the origin of discord; so that the factious, the royalists. and the foreigners, being deprived of every pretext, may have their designs frustrated, if they wish to rob us of the glory to deliver the King, and their plans totally defeated, if, under this pretext they canceal some other wish.

"Your excellency ought to consider, that no party can be sustained without strength; and you may already have perceived, that the latter cannot be acquired without public confidence to obtain which it is necessary to act in conformity with the general will. "Were I not well assured that your excellency loves Spain and glory, I should not apply to you to avail yourself of the grandest opportunity which has ever occurred of becoming the deliverer not only of Spain, but of all Europe. It would be an mailt to your penetration to dwell upon the melanchely consequences, and above all upon the usclessness of taking any other resolution; for to attempt the defence of any cause with few forces, when more numerous forces are at hand, is to enfeeble the cause which we desire to uphold .-To sum up the whole, I am certain that it is as impossible to establish despotism in Spain, as it is to sustain the Constitution of 1812; with this difference only, that at the expense of blood, and with numerous forces, the former might be kept up for some time; but to put in practice the Constitution of the year 1812, is physically and morally impossible, and consequently it has failed in Spain and every where else; for it is contradictory in itself, and contains the principles of its own destruction; it could prevail no where, because it is out of the power of man to create beings with qualities essentially contradictory.

Let your excellence consider these truths.

which the love of his country has suggested to him who prays God to preserve your excellency many years.

(TRANSLATION.) His Excellency the Count Del Abisbal to Count Montijo.

" Most Excellent Sir-This day was delivered of your Excellency, dated the 11th inst. and in the Chief of this district and the commande of the army, it is incumbent on me to comply with the orders of the government, at the head of which is his Majesty, and that I am resolved to pursue this line of conduct, though I am fully convinced, that, unfortunately for the nation, the Ministry which governs it is incapable of rescuing it from the danger to which it is reduced by the unskilfulness of the preceding Ministers, and by the unpardonable imprudence of the last, who have provoked the present war without displaying the energy necessary for upholding the dignity of the nation, or proposing those conciliatory means that might have united the minds of Spaniards, and might have prevented foreigners from the daring attempt to interfere in the disputes of Spain, by violating the territory of the nation. without any previous declaration of war.

"I have observed already, and I now repeat, that in the capacity of General, I must obey the orders of the government, and not set the example of a pernicious disobedience, which would authorize that of those Spaniards whom the law places under my orders, and would open a vast field to private ambition; but as a Spanish citicen who may, without transgressing the laws, indulge his own thoughts respecting the situation of the country, and the means which might be taken to rescue her from the ruin prepared for her by discord, by fanaticism and by the interests of the individual heads of party, who discuise their ambitious views with the sacred name of love to their country, and also of a numerous class of men who have nothing to lose, and who are inflamed with the love of plunder and destruction alone, which would contribute to the rosperity of those persons who can make a igure in society only when the barriers of subordination and respect to the laws are removed; I am of opinion, that the majority of the nation s not solicitous to continue the Constitution of he year 1812, though it is not for me to invesigate the causes which may have produced the very notorious dislike expressed in regard to the laws emanating from it.

" That the decided majority of intelligent persons, distributed among the different parties which unfortunately divide the nation, abhors both despotism and fanaticism, and only wishes for a liberal Constitution, which may conciliate s much as possible all classes of the state, unite he will of the Spaniards by ensuring the dignity and inviolability of the constitutional throne, and do away the pretext that may be pleaded by foreigners for intermeddling in our domestic conerns, to the manifest infraction of the law of nations, so as to compel hem to desist from their interprise, on perceiving that Spanish wisdom nows how to curb the fury of parties, and force hem to retire: because the Spaniards themselves, n concert with their monarch, discuss like brethren the question which divided their opinions.

"That a considerable number of the lower lasses, unaccustomed to think for themselves, ave no opinion whatever, act on the rooted habit of respecting as most just that which is most ancient, and desire pillage and licentiousness, which, at the expence of people of property, supply them with some conveniences which they must forego in times of tranquillity; and that the means which might be employed to re-establish peace and union, would be, first, to notify to the rading army, that the nation, in concurrence with the King, proposed to make in its present onstitution such alterations as experience has ught it to be necessary to unite the minds of he Spaniards, and ensure their happiness as well as the dignity of the constitutional throne; and that, consequently, it ought to retire from the panish territory, and confine itself, to amicable itervention by means of its Ambassador. Secondly, that his majesty and his government should again be established at Madrid, as the capital of the monarchy; lest it should be said that he sojourns at Seville against his inclination. Thirdly, that in order to make in the constitution such reforms as are deemed requisite, a new should present themselves with the power specified by the constitution. Fourthly that it be proposed to his Majesty, that he would be pleased to choose a ministry which should be wedded to no party, and should deserve the confidence of il, as well as that of foreign powers. And fifthly, that a general amnesty should be decreed: and that a disposition should be evinced to pay attention to, and employ, without any regard to former opinions, all Spaniards who from their penetration, services, and patriotism, should be worthy of bring preferred.

" Such is my private opinion; and, as a Spansh citizen, who is terrified at the present situaion of his country, and who, at the expense of is blood, would prevent the effusion of that of ais fellow citizens, I will cheerfully subscribe any epresentation which may bring about so sacred

"God preserve your excellency many years. " The CONDE DEL ABISBAL. " Madrid, May 15, 1823."

The following Circular has been addressed by the Post-Master General, to Post-Masters, and

GENERAL POST OFFICE, 7

July 7, 1823. 5
The Post-Master General has observed, that some of the contractors for the conveyance of the mail, seem to be indifferent, as well to the manner in which the mail is conveyed, as to the time in which it is delivered. Where the mail is carried on horseback, the obligation is positive, that t shall be covered, so as to protect it from the reather-where it is conveyed in a carriage, the bligation is equally positive, that it shall be kept

In consequence of the repeated violations of the above obligations, the Post Master General gives notice, that, in every instance, in which the contractor shall fail to convey the mail under cover, as the terms of his contract require, or shall fail in delivering it at the time directed, a fine shall be assessed, which shall only be remitted, on showing that the omission or failure did not proceed from negligence. And if this remedy should prove ineffectual, the conveyance will be placed in other hands.

Many of the complaints which are so repeat edly made against the Post Office Department, arise from the negligence of Postmasters-Notice s therefore given, that these complaints shall be strictly attended to, and the proper remedy applied. It is particularly enjoined on those who have the care of distributing offices, that they employ in their respective offices only such clerks as are entirely competent. Letters are mis-sent frequently, by those employed in distributing offices, who are not sufficiently acquainted with the geography of the country, to give the proper direction to the different letters.

For years past, the moneys realized by the General Post Office, have been less than its expenditures. The quarter ending on the thirty first of March last, left a deficiency of near forty thousand dollars, and it is believed, that there is a deficiency equally as large for the ensuing quarter. This evil is rapidly increasing, and must essentially impede the operations of the Department, unless an effectual remedy be applied. The remedy can only be found, by appropriations from the Treasury, by restricting the travel of the mail, or by inducing Postmasters to be more punctual in paying the moneys received by them. The list of delinquencies, which the office now exhibits, shows a most culpable negligence of many Postmasters, in this respect. In future, where any Postmaster shall neglect to pay over as directed, within a reasonable time, the moneys to me by the Chief of the Etat-Major the letter he may have received for postage, he shall be deemed guilty of ... omission of an important duty, and the Postmaster General will apply the most effectual means to prevent a second failure.

It is expected that those Postmasters who have appropriated the public money to their own use, and have for years evinced but little disposition to refund it, will pay their respective balances without delay.

If monies received as above had been faithfully paid over, the expenditures of the Post Office Department would not have exceeded the sums received. The operations of a department so essential to the interests of the community, as are those of the Post Office, should not be impeded by the negligence or faithlessness of some of its agents. A relaxation from any positive duty, by any who are concerned in the above operations, cannot fail to produce some inconvenience or loss to the public. And unless the most effectual remedies be applied, a failure in one point will but encourage negligence, and ensure other failures until the whole system will become paralyzed. The Post Office Department, to secure the important objects of its establishment, must be conducted with the utmost degree of energy, This shall be the constant aim of the Postmaster General. He is happy to acknowledge, that a great majority of Postmasters and Contractors. are not only competent to the discharge of their respective duties, but are prompt and energetic in the discharge of them. The Postmaster General most confidently relies on the co-operation of such, in his endeavors to give energy to the operations of his department.

Weekin Compendium.

The United States schr. Wild Cat, arrived on Priday at Norfolk, in 6 days from Key Vacas -Lieut Com Skinner, reports, that there was no sickness worth mentioning, either on board the squadron, or at Key West. A plot, formed by Capt. Smith, of the Hornet, to entrap the pirates off Matanzas, proved unsuccessful.

On Thursday last, the body of James C. Jewett, Esq. of Portland, (Me) was found, floating on the ocean, about eight miles from Newburyport, after having been missing seven months.

The trial of Dow vs. Bell, for a breach of mariage promise, came on at Haverhill, N. H last November, when the jury could not agree, and the case was carried over to another term. The New buryport Herald says, the case came on and was again argued last week at Haverhill, when the jury decided that Mr. Bell was " not guilty."-The defendant has been three years married; the plaintiff is a lady about 30 years old.

The Bank of the United States has declared dividend of two and a half per cent, on its capital stock for the last six months.

PARDON -Bernard Manville, a youth fourteen years of age, convicted at the last term of the Circuit Court at Mobile of larceny, and sentenced to corporeal punishment, has been pardoned by his Excellency the Governor. Manville is a native of Bordeaux-by profession a sailor-and was seduced to commit the crime of which he was convicted by an older person.

EMIGRATION .- During the last week, several families have passed through this town, on their way to Dublin and Liverpool, to procure a passage to America. They all appeared to be in comfortable circumstances, and were accompanied with carts carrying the females, their trunks, provisions, &c - Westmeath Journal.

ST KITTS.-The Custom House at St. Kitts has published a permission for all American ves to be admitted to an entry, even if they have prohibited articles on board. Such articles to be entered for exportation, and not to be landed.

It is computed that 200,000 children are now receiving in Great Britain, the benefits of educaion, on the system of Bell and Lancaster.

one of the men employed in loading the gun, had both his arms blown off near the elbows, by the accidental disch arge of the piece.

The Windsor, (Vt.) Journal states, that astonishing depredations have been committed in many places in that vicinity, by forest worms .--Orchards are completely stripped of their leaves, and large tracts of forest trees show at a distance the resemblance of having fire passed through them, occasioned by the loss of their foliage by worms. These worms are larger than the common caterpillar, which nests upon apple trees, and appears later in the season.

A RARE ANIMAL - The Hippopotamus now exhibiting in New York, is really one of the most curious animals ever exhibited in this country .-It partakes of the mixed character of the elephant, horse, and hog, and is a large and very docile animal.

A certificate of the age of the Virginia horse Henry, who ran over the Long Island course with Eclipse, is received from Col. Johnson, and pub-I shed in the Evening Post. Henry was four years old the 17th of last Jone.

The owners of the New York packet ship Leeds, have added to the ladies cabin a superb piano forte, which originally cost $400.

THE MISSISSIPPL-The number of persons passing up and down this "Father of waters" is wonderfully large. In the course of a few days, no less than seven hundred and eighty passengers came up the river in steam boats, and landed at

Proposals are open at Florence, Alabama, for erecting a Methodist meeting-house. Five years ago, this thriving town was the property of the Chickasaw Indians, and common with the adjacent wilderness. It now contains one or two hundred houses, some of which are of brick, large and elegant, and gives employment to six or eight steam

The jail at Bridgeton (N. J.) caught fire or Thursday morning week, in the upper part, and was not got under until the roof was entirely consumed, and the upper timber rendered useless.

The Norfolk Beacon of Thursday week says-We regret to learn that two new cases of fever have appeared among the crew of the Decoy, or Craney Island, one on Monday, and the other yes terday--previous two which all the sick were believed to be in a happy state of convalescence.

Slave Trude .- In the seventh report of the African Institution, it is stated that in seven months of the year 1821, not less than thirty-eight thousand human beings had been carried from the coast of Africa, into slavery; and that the traffic was generally carried on under the French flag.

Mr. Jacob A. Snyder, of Marbletown, Ulster county, New-York, has this season exhibited a stem of rye from his field, which had 19 branches. averaging 80 kernels to the ear, and making a total of 1520 kernels from a single grain. We do not recollect an instauce of such a manifest

Two men were recently engaged in a scuffle, in New-York, when the head of a large sail needle, which was attached to the coat of one of them, ac cidentally hit against a hard substance, probably a button, which forced the point of it into the breast of the other. It penetrated his heart, and he almost immediately expired.

John Dowd was committed to the prison of Nor- him independent, being in value about $1. istown, Penn. on Sunday last, on the charge of u dering John Williams, of Whitemarsh Township, on Saturday afternoon last.

We learn by an arrival at Charleston, from Prinidad, that thirteen pirates had been captured by a party of soldiers, after a desperate engage ment in which the captain of the pirates was kill ed. The pirates were lodged in prison at that place. On their examination they confessed havng murdered captain Rae and all the crew of the rig Mechanic, of New-York. The Boston Daily Advertiser states, that there are now building in that city about two hundred houses, a large proportion of which are large and legant dwelling-houses.

The editor of the New Brunswick Fredonian condemns, in very strong terms, the pardon of the two French mail robbers. Yet we feel confi dent that were he acquainted with all the circumstances of the case, so far from censuring he would approve the act of the executive. Their sincere penitence and subdued temper, giving full assurance that they could never again be tempted to do an unjust or improper act—their severe sufferings of body and mind for more than four years which had so far reduced their health and spirits as to render it almost certain that they could not live the summer out in confinement-their anxiety to see their friends and families, and their promise to leave this country as soon as they could get out of it-these, and many other circumstances, made such an impression in their favour on the minds of all who saw and conversed with them, as to produce so strong an appeal to the President that he could scarcely have resisted it with pro priety. We have not the slightest doubt of being able to convince every unright mind that no blame whatever can attach to the President on this occasion; but that he has acted with his accu-tomed deliberation and circumspection.—Tren. Horrid Execution - At the last Supreme Court for the Isle of Wight county, (Va.) came on the trial of Willis and Dompsy Carr, for the murder of John M Call, last autumn, while he and his wife were travelling through that county, from Tennessee-the particulars of which were published at that time. Willis was sentenced to 18 years imprisonment in the penitentiary, and Dempsy was condemned to be hung on F-iday the 20th of June His execution accordingly took place on that day The criminal was taken to the gallows in a cart, amidst an immense concourse of spectators, at tended by a minister of the gospel, who delivered a sermon at the fatal tree, to which the miserable man paid great attention. He met his fate with compasure—called his wife and several of his acquaintances to him, and implored them to seek salvation that they might be prepared to meet him in a better world. He took an affectionate leave of them and in the next moment the fatal drop fell, and he was left suspended in the air; but the rope not being sufficiently strong to bear his weight, broke about six inches from his neck, and he fell to the ground. The noose was instantly disengaged from his neck, and another provided. As soon as he recovered himself, he began to pray aloud to God o have mercy on his soul, and so continued unti e was again summoned to ascend the scaffold; in a few seconds more he was launched into eter-

The Florence (Alabama) Gazette of 7th June, contains an account of a horrid murder committed a few days previous, by a man by the name of Smithson, on the person of Mr. Argile Taylor .-Smithson had visited Mr. Taylor the night previ ous, and become intoxicated; behaving so bad that it became necessary for Mr. Taylor to order him from the house. On the day of the murder, Mr. Taylor met Smithson near his piantation, when, after a few words, the latter shot the former with a rifle, the ball lodging in Mr. Taylor's body. from which he expired in three days. Smithson was apprehended and lodged in jail.

Munificent Act .- We understand, says the Baltimore Patriot, that the late John Ouven, in his last will bequeathed twenty thousand dollars to the Hibernian Society of Maryland, for the pur pose of establishing a Free-School, for the education of poor children of both sexes, and of all religious denominations. Wealth, when appropriated to such uses, is truly an enviable acquisition. and the philanthropic heart only feels poverty's severe gripe, while contemplating the munificent works of such a man.

Shocking .- We learn by the Baltimore Gazette, that on Saturday, the 5th inst. about one o'clock in the afternoon, Major Nathaniel Musgrave, of Montgomery county, (3ld.) being informed that his son-in-law, Alexander Davall, who resided at a short distance, was violently beating his wife. went hastily to Mr. Duvall's house to interpose .-Mr. Duvall, much enraged at the interposition, deciared that he would shoot the Major, and rain to a neighboring house, where he procured a loaded gun, returned to his own house, and standing in his yard, near the door, called to Major Musgrave to come out-as the Major came out of the door, Duvall fired, and lodged the contents of the gun in his body, he fell in the door-way, and expired shortly after.

Floating Light .- The floating beacon projected by Capt. Reid, for the entrance of New-York harbour, as an additional guide to the benighted mariner, has been exhibited, brilliantly lighted up, between the Battery and Bedloe's Island .-A large concourse of spectators assembled to witness the exhibition. The light is supported by a structure in the form of a strongly built scow. It will be floated to the Hook, and firmly moored there in an eligible position, by iron cables. The vessel and its appendages are believed to be sufficiently strong to resist the utmost violence of the winds and waves.

The 4th of July was celebrated at New Bruns wick with unusual splendour and spirit. In the procession which passed through the principal streets of that town, to the Dutch church, where an oration was delivered by C. L. Hardenbergh, Esq. was to be seen a platform raised on a wagon, on which farmers were at work amid sheaves of grain with the various implements of husbandry. which gave a lively picture of agriculture : on another wagon, prepared for the purpose and decorated with hangings of sheep and calf skins, were seen butchers with their meat handsomely dressed, delivering it to their customers, as they passed along the streets: next followed the ship Independence, properly rigged and well manned, with banners, and appropriate devices, moving nobly along -the image and personification of American commerce. Lastly, on eight stages were seen the representatives of the different mechanical arts. The ppearance of the artificers and workmen at their different occupations must have produced a pleas-

MORE OF THE GOLD MINE.

The Cheraw Intelligencer of the 5d inst. contains further particulars of the gold mine, lately discovered in North Carolina. Col. Kerr, who is one of the proprietors of the mine, has informed the editor of the Intelligencer, that there are already 30 hands at work: that before autumn there will be from 150 to 200 more employed; that four workmen in 2 days found 70 pennyweights of gold (equal to $63.70,) which is about the average of their labour; that a poor man lately found a single piece, which almost rendered

OPPRESSION OF THE HIRELING.

A Dublin paper of the 2d of June, states, the an abuse exists among the smaller silk man turers of Dublin, which is of a disgraceful charater and pernicious tendency. It is the paying their workmen only a part of their earnings in ney, and the residue in goods, which are of ana ferior quality, and are charged to the poor labor at an exhorbitant price. For a ball of gallon charged at 5s, the unhappy workmen, after last much time to find a purchaser, cannot get, pe haps, over 3s. 6d. The practice is ag ist fi statute, which inflicts a fine of £10 for the offate.

From the N. Y. Evening Post, July 11.

We have had a conversation with a gentlem of the first respectability, lately arrived in Europe, who left Paris on the 18th of Maria came through London, where he spent smedy. He says the prevailing opinion among the beau informed inhabitants of Paris and London 8, as the British ministry are as anxious for the desire tion of the Spanish constitution, as it now sum and the success of the French arms in brings back Ferdinand to all the powers heretofer him surrendered to the Cortes, as the month cided royalist in Paris. He says Paris was 250 as London, and this from no other cause than a perfect understanding excited between M.C. teaubriand and the British Ministry, that the ish Constitution should be made null-but the Inquisition wa. not to be restored; the first of September, the campaign would closed, leaving 100,000 French to protected nand and his Court. The fast sailing British ship Commerce, Capt. Richie, arrived at New-York, has brought London papers to the 3d of June, from which the following extracts are taken : The Duke of Angouleme has addressed a proclamation to the Spanish people, very kindly assuring them again, that France is not at war with Spain; and, that the French army has come among them as auxiliaries to aid the nation in restoring her altars, liberating her monarch, and reestablishing justice, order and peace. He adds. that the moment has arrived for establishing a Regency, which is to administer the government, and organize a regular army until the King shal be restored.

Nothing is said of Abisbal's movements, or pur-upon Badajoz. Under the head of Madrid, 26th May, there is an official announcement from the Duke of Angouleme, of the appointment of the new Regency. It consists, as our former accounts stated, of the Duke del Infantado, President; D. de Montemar; Baron D'Eroles; Bishop of Osma, and M. Calde-

A letter from Seville, dated May 16, states, that the Exaltados are decidedly vanquished, and the party of Tereno have gained the ascendancy -Calatrava is no longer Minister of the Interior to which office he had been nominated, but is now Minister of Justice. Zamdiola is appointed to the Finances; he is quite devoted to Count Toreno .-They are hesitating between Perez de Castro and Pandro for the Foreign Department. Pandro was the last Secretary of Embassy at Paris. Zereo dei Valle is spoken of as Minister of War; his nomination will be the ruin of the party of Mina.

The common belief is, that the above Ministry hold the same views with Abisbal. Andalusia and Estremadura, it is said in the French papers, have declared against the Co tes.

Smyrna dates, through the German papers, are to the 18th of April. It is said that the Turkish fleet will be stronger this year than it was the last, when it has made its junction with the Egyptian and Barbary squadron. It is supposed that it will act on another plan, and with more vigor; at all events we consider the campaign, which is on 'he point of commencing, as decisive. Letters from the island of Lyca say, that the 3000 banditti who had laid a plan to plunder the island, but were prevented by the arrival of a French frigate, threaten to renew the attempt -The inhabitants have, however, prevailed on the captain of the frigate to remain there some time

Count Talleyrand, Minister Plenipotentiary of France to the Helvetian confederation, is going to leave Switzerland-it is not known who is to be his successor.

A Berlin paper of May 22, says-" For some time past fires have been extremely frequent in the Great Duchy of Posen. There was one on the 5th in the town of Rogassen which destroyed 137 buildings, 147 barns, and other buildings."

Calamitous Fire .- A distressing fire took place at the King's Head public hou-e, White Lionstreet, Seven Dials, Landon. A man and his wife. lodgers, were overtaken by the flames, and forced to drop from the third story window-they were dreadfully mangled—the man had his legs broke: -the woman broke her breast bone and her arms, and her head was almost dashed to pieces, she is since dead. A female lodger, with a child in her arms, appeared at another window, she threw he child to the persons in the street who attempted to catch it, but failing, the poor infant's thigs were broken, and it soon died. The mother jumped out af erwards, but was so dreadfully injured, that she expired in a short time. Coronation Expenses .- The Coronation of George the IVth cost the nation £238,218 sterling. The article of souff boxes, for the foreign ambassadors, came to £8 205, (upwards of 36,000 dollars!) Steam boat to Spain.-A steam boat of 300 with an engine of 80 horse power, is to start from or the purpose of washing a horse—he got London for Corunna, Lisbon and Cadiz, every Sa to deep water, floated off the back of the turday. The boat is fixed up with a grand cabin in the most magnificent style.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

NEW-YORK, July 17. The Packet Ship Panthea, Cap Bennett, artis ed last evening, in 35 days from Liverpool. By this arrival the Editors of the Commercial Advetiser have received their usual supply of Loudon and Liverpool papers, the former to the 8 h, and the latter to the 10th of June-both inclusive. FRANCE AND SPAIN.

The papers bring our advices from Paris down to the 6th of June; from Madrid to the 30th of May; and from Seville to the 22d, all inclu-ive .-After a diligent perusal of the papers of different parties, however, we are compelled to adopt the opinion of the Liverpool Advertiser, as expressed on the 10th of June, that the affairs of Spam are still involved in much perplexity, and that the latest intelligence from that country tends only to increase the difficulty. Speculation is absolutely put at defiance; and all that we can do, is to endeavour to collate and arrange the various ac counts, and render them as intelligible as possible.

Among the documents in the London papers is an address from the Grandees, or the highest or der of Nobles, of the country, to the Duke d'Angouleme, expressive of their "gratitude to his Royal Highness," and of their " sentiments towards their King and country." The signatures are about thirty, and what is a little curious, we find among them those of several Countesses, and of one Duchess. The Courier of the 6th of June, questioned the character and influence of the signers of this paper, but on the subsequent day it held the following language -" We now understand that they are of the first and most distinguished class of the Nobility of Spain, and that they have no superiors, if any equal-, in point of wealth, influence and character. The Duchess Benevente, for example, is the representative of the above vessels, is at present in Boston are facts of great importance," &c. In order, three most ancient and opulent families. These purpose of having a Glass Globe cast for however, to form a proper estimate of the character of the Spanish Nobility, and the degree of importance to be attached to this address, it is proper to bear in mind, that a similar address, from a like source, was presented to Joseph Bonaparte, when he entered Madrid as King of Spain. In another article, the same paper of the evening of the 7th, says, speaking of the details of the operaions of the French army. " these details are now deprived of much of their value by the course which events have taken : for we can state upon high authority, that the war in Spain my be considered as at an end. The only fear that is now entertoined as of the re-action of the violens desputic party.' The new Regency of Spain had been formally installed at Madrid, and their first act was to appoint a new Ministry, and it is also stated that Ambassadors have been appointed to all the Cours of Europe. The New Times and sundry other papers, otter the same opinion expressed above, that the Military part of the Drama is now nearly over; and that it is to the political part that the most serious and earnest attention should now be given. It likewise declares that the Duke del Infantado is, or soon will be, formally recognized as President of the Regency by the Great Powers of the continent. Weether England, in this event, will adopt a differen line of policy from the rest of Europe, is doubtful. What has become of the treacherous Count d'Abisbal, we are not told, through various concours were affoat concerning him. The probability is that he is in the neighborhood of Madrid

The King of England's health was considerably restored, and the Courier remarks that his appearance at the Council on the 6th were such as to impart the highest gratification to those who witnessed them.

Ambassador on the same day. The London Gazette of June 7th, contains a proclamation of the King of England, prohibiting his subjects from enlisting or engaging in any manner in foreign service, under the penalty of fine and imprisonment. He also prohibits the fitting out or equipping in any of his dominions vessels for warlike purposes, to be engaged in behalf of any foreign power.

The King has approved of Mr. Thomas W. Fox, as Consul at Plymouth, for the United States, and of Mr. Hunter as Consul for the same at Cowes.

Outrages still continued to be perpetrated in Ireland. Murder, robbery, and house burning were carried on by Capt. Rock and his party.

Mr. Green lately made an ascent in a balloon near Hackney. When two miles and a half high, he found it so cold that his fingers were paralysed.

An elegant service of silver and silvergilt plate, has been executed for the English Embassy at the Court of Austria, upon the new economical plan adopted by government to be stationary at the different courts, instead of belonging to the different Ambassadors.

Letters from St. Petersburgh renew the reports that the commencement of hostilities between the Russians and Turks is not

The Augsburgh paper of May 27, says,-We earn from Seres, that from the 18th of April to he 30th, Turkish troops passed every day through that town, marching upon the Morea.

Letters from the same town, of the 3.1. of May, state, that the Greeks of the Island of Thasos had attacked and completely defeated a Turkish division proceeding along the coast towards Salonica It is also stated, that at that period the citadel of Larissa had fallen into the hands of the Greeks. Letters from Bucharest state, that 500 houses ad been destroyed by a fire which lately broke Advices from Constantinople are to the 26th of April, at which date that capital enjoyed entire ranquitity, which would be still further confirmed by the sailing of the greater part of the fleet, the crews of which frequently committed excesses. The fortresses of Patros, Corinth, Lepanto, the castles of the Morea, Ceron, Moden, Negropont and Caristo, were still in possession of the Turks .-The governments of O hri and Eibessan had been ately added to the Vice-Royalty of the Porte, which would enable him to make great armament. for the approaching campaign. The rendezvous of the troops to act against the Greeks would be Larissa in Thessalv.

The Report that the negociations between Pera and the Porte are broken off, because the latly belonging to Persia, and which it seized upon during the internal troubles in that kingdom, is renewed and asserted with confidence. It seems that the Divan, in resolving not to yield this point, depends on fresh intestine divisions in Persia ; but the latter Court does not seem to be uneasy, and has given orders to prosecute the war with fresh vigour. Its Southern Army, which ad been considerably reinforced, was expected ear Bagdad, the Pacha being too weak to resist has applied to all quarters for aid, but has received very few reinforcements. It seems that the Southern Persian Army is destined to penetrate to Syria, and the Northern to take possession of Armenia. A general levy against the Persians is expected in Turkey in Asia.

CURE FOR WEAK EVES.

Recommended from actual experience. Take a small lump of white copperas; say bout the size of a pea; put it in a small phiat, olding about 2 ounces of water, carrying this in he pocket, and occasionally taking out of the ork, turn the phial upon the finger's end, and hus bathe the eyes This will positively effect a real oure in a short tire -. MUSICAL CURIOSITY.

MUSICAL CURIOSITY.

A morkable for their taste in elegant furniture and the mechanic arts as well as music. Among the wonders of their pulcee, was a clock much celebrated in Paris, and described in the Journals of the time, as quite a predigy of art. The clock played twenty different times upon an organ and piano fart, both of which instruments were enclosed within its case. The King and Queen having lost their heals, this musical curiority was purchased by the late Governeur Morris, then American Minister at Paris, and by him was brought to Philadelphia in the year 1793. It is now in John Gibbe's Lottery Office, No. 4 1-2, South Third-street, and is exhibited by him freely to dil those, whose lucky stars lead them to purchase tickets and shares in the Union Canal or Pennsylvania State Lotteries, from him; and as well worth the price of a thare of a ticket to see and hear as an object of curiosity, jung 31-tf

The celebrated Haerlem organ was made b Christopher Muder, of Haerlem, and erected in 1738 It consists of eight thousand pipes, the largest thirty-eight feet long, and sixteen inches in diameter; there are sixty eight stops, of which the most wonderful is the vox humana, so exactly imitative of the human voice, both in bass, tenor and treble, that it was some time before I (say Mr. Forbes) could persuade myself that I was not imposed upon by real voices. There are other pipes which are equally wonderful in the notes of different birds; and the effect of the kettle-drum is not easy to be conceived.

COUGHS AND CONSUMPTIONS.

THIS new and healing Balsam bids fair to rival every Medicine heretofore discovered, for Congus, and compleints of the iungs, leading to Consumption, and even in season of consumptions have lately been used by many, with the most surprizing success. If certificates from persons of the highest respectability, or the great and increasing demand for them, may be called proof of their good effects, it is proved. Scarcely a case of Colds, Coughs, pain in the side, difficulty of breathing, want of sleep, arising from debility, or even Consumptions but may be relieved by the timely use of this Medicine.

Thereby certify that my wife has for some time past been troubled with a violent Cough, and has been in very delicate health, and after having tried many things without getting relief, I bought for her a bottle of DR. MELLEN'S Cough Drops, from the use of which a very short time she found great relief, and her Cough has entirely left her and she has regained her strength.

FOR THE SATURDAY EVENING POST. To _____. and hast thou fled-forever fled, Without one word or kind adieu?

Pondly I thought again to tread, The flow'ry maze with joy and you Why hast thou thus my love repaid, Why left me thus to mourn and sig O tell me-is there aught I've said

Or done, that caus'd thy cruelty? Ah, no! thou can'st not, dare not say I ever gave thee just offence; My heart, too true e'en to this day, Devotes to thee its ev'ry sense.

Well didst thou know my all was thine Too sure thy victim was thy own; Deserted, friendless, I repine-I sigh in vain, and weep and moan. Hadst thou one spark of honour left,

Did truth within thy bosom glow-If virtue ere within thy breast. Or in thy heart did purely flow-Compunction quick would harrow up Thy soul, and infinite despair

Make thee to taste the bitter cup Of misery, or thy wrongs repair. Yes, mark me well—the rime will come The day appear, when all thy deeds To one well known, shall strike thee h
